PREFACE

These notes have been compiled with a view to acquaint the visitors with the contents of the inscriptions deposited in the Central Museum, Nagpur. They may also be useful to scholars as inscriptions discovered and deposited in the Museum subsequent to the publication of late Dr. Hiralal's work on the Inscriptions in the Central Provinces and Berar have also been included.

Each note gives an abstract of the contents of the inscription together with references to the publications where it is published or noticed. The notes are arranged in the dynastic order and dynastic tables have been given where possible.

My best thanks are due to Prof. V. V. Mirashi who kindly edited and revised these notes and helped at every stage of work. Notes on the Muhammadan inscriptions have been compiled by Mr. M. A. Suboor, the Coin Expert, attached to the Museum.

THE DEOTEK SLAB

[On loan from the Archæological Department of the Government of India.] ]

This slab was lying under a tamarind tree near an old temple at Deotek, a village in the Chāndā district, 50 miles south-east of Nāgpur. It contains two inscriptions, both of which are fragmentary. The earlier of the two is inscribed lengthwise and is in characters resembling those of the inscriptions of Aśoka. Originally the lines of this inscription seem to have extended to the right-hand end of the slab, but nearly half the portion on the right-hand side has been chiselled off to make room for the later inscription which was incised by the order of the Vākāṭaka king Rudrasena I. This latter inscription is inscribed breadthwise.

The earlier inscription records the order of some king (Swāmī), probably Aśoka, to the people of Chikambari that whoever captures or kills (animals) would be punished. The second inscription records that the building at which the stone was kept was the place of religious worship (Dharma-sthānam) of the king Rudrasena (I) of the Vākāṭaka family.

Chikambari mentioned in both the inscriptions is modern Chikmārā, a village adjoining Deotek.

DHUĀNDHĀR KUSHĀN INSCRIPTIONS

Two statues of Kushān period were found near the famous water-fall of the Narmadā river at Bherāghāṭ. The inscriptions on them show that they were installed by the daughter of the king Bhūvaka or Bhūmaka about 2,000 years ago.

(Noticed in R. B. Hiralal's Inscriptions, etc., p. 38.)

AN INSCRIBED STONE-SLAB FROM PAUNI, DISTRICT BHĀNDĀRĀ

[About 1st Century A. D.]

The object of this inscription in the Brāhmī characters is to record the dedication of a slab with foot prints by the Bhagadatta, a king of Bhāra Clan. This Bhāra Clan is probably identical with the later Bhārāśivas of the Vākāṭaka age..

INSCRIPTIONS OF THE KINGS OF SARABHAPURA

No. 4

ĀRANG PLATES OF MAHĀ-JAYĀRĀJA

[Of about the end of the 5th Century A. D.]

These three plates with their seal were obtained by Col. Bloomfield from Ārang, a village about 20 miles east of Raipur. They form a charter issued from Sarabhpura by the king Mahā-Jayarāja granting Pāmvā, a village in the Pūrva-rāshṭra "Eastern Country", to Brahmadevasvāmin.

The inscription is in Sanskrit and is written in the box-headed characters. It is dated on the 25th day of the month Māgha in the fifth regnal year of Mahā-Jayarāja. The record probably belongs to the end of the fifth century A.D.

(Edited by Fleet in Gupta Inscriptions, p. 191 ff.; noticed in R. B. Hiralal's Inscriptions, etc., p. 105.)

No. 5

THE KHARIAR PLATES AND SEAL OF MAHĀ-SUDEVARĀJA

[Of about the 6th Century A. D.]

These three plates with the ring and seal attached were dug up at Khariar in the Raipur district, Central Provinces.

The inscription is one of the king Ma' ā-Sudevarāja and is dated on the 29th day of Śrāvaṇa in the second year of his reign. It was issued from Sarabhapura, probably his capital. It records the grant of the villages Navanānaka near Sāmbilaka in the Kshitimaṇḍāhāra to a certain Vājasaneyin Vishṇusvāmin of the Kauś.ka gotra. Navanānaka may be Nahnā, 3 miles south of Khariar.

The seal bears the figure of Gajalakshmī in relief, and a legend which tells us that Mahā-Sudeva was the son of Mānamāṭra and grandson of Prasanna.

The language of the inscription is Sanskrit, and the script the box-headed variety of the Central Indian alphabet.

(Edited by R. B. Hiralal in the Epigraphia Indica, Vol. IX, p. 170 ff.; noticed by him in his Inscriptions, etc., p. 106.)

THE ĀRANG PLATES OF THE TIME OF MAHĀ-SUDEVARĀJA

[Of about the 6th Century A. D.]

These three plates were discovered in the possession of a cultivator of Ārang in the Raipur district. They record the grant of the village Siviliṅgaka in the Tosaddabhukti to a number of Brāhmaṇas made by Pratiḥāra Bhogilla and confirmed by the king Mahā-Sudevarāja of Sarabhapura. The plates were issued in the eighth year of the king's reign on the 21st day of Vaiśākha.

Tosadda may be Tusdā near Dumarpalli, about 30 miles south-east of Ārang.

The inscription is in Sanskrit, written in the box-headed characters.

RAIPUR PLATES OF MAHĀ-SUDEVARĀJA

[Of about the 6th Century A. D.]

These three plates and the seal, which bears Lakshmi with an elephant standing on either side, were obtained by Col. Bloomfield at Raipur, Central Provinces.

The inscription is a charter of Mahā-Sudevarāja issued from Sarabhapura granting on the occasion of the Uttarāyanā Saṅkrānti to two Brāhmaṇas the village of Srisāhika (Sirsāhi in the Balodā Bazār tahsil of Raipur district) in the "Eastern Country". The language is Sanskrit, and the script box-headed. It is dated on the 9th day of the month Māgha in the 10th year of the reign of Mahā-Sudevarāja. The record probably belongs to the beginning of the 6th Century A. D.

(Edited by Fleet in his Gupta Inscriptions, p. 196 ff; noticed in Hiralal's Inscriptions, etc.)

THE SEONI PLATES OF PRAVARASENA II

[Of the 5th Century A. D.]

These five plates and seal were purchased from Dulsu Gond of Siwani. It is not known where they were originally found.

The inscription, which is in Sanskrit, written in box-headed characters registers a grant, by Pravarasena II of the Vākātaka dynasty of the village Brahmapūraka (Bāhmni near Kāranjā in the Bhandārā district) in the Benñākārpāra Division. It mentions Koilapūraka and Karanjaviraka which are identical with Koolpā and Kārnjā in the Āmgaon Zamindāri of the Bhandārā district. The record is dated on the 18th year of the reign of Pravarasena II.

(Edited by Dr. Fleet in Gupta Inscriptions, p. 243 ff.; noticed by Hiralal in his Inscriptions, etc., p. 69.)

TIRODI PLATES OF PRAVARASENA II

[Of the 5th Century A. D.]

[Presented to the Museum by Mr. Bisrāmj, Manganese Contractor, Tirodi.]

These plates were discovered at Tirodi 8 miles to the south-east of Katangi in the Bālāghāt district. They were issued from Narattañgavāri by the Vākātaka king Pravarasena II on the 12th day of the dark half of the month Māgha in his twenty-third regnal year. They record the grant to a Brāhmaṇa named Varuṇāryya of the village Kośambakhaṇḍa (modern Kosumba 6 miles south-west of Tirodi) in the western part of Bennākāṭa, which was bounded on the east by Jamalī, on the south by Vardhamānaka, on the west by Mṛigasima and on the north by Mallakapedhaka.

Pravarasena II ruled in the first half of the 5th Century A. D.

The inscription is written in the Sanskrit language and in box-headed characters.

PATTAN PLATES OF PRAVARASENA II

[Of the 5th Century A. D.]

This set of five copper-plates was discovered in 1935 at Paṭṭan in the Multāi tahsil of the Betul district. It registers the grant by Pravarasena II of the Vākāṭaka dynasty, of 400 nivartanas of land in the village Aśvatthakhetaka (modern Paṭṭan) for the maintenance of a sattra or charitable feeding house in honour of the foot-prints of Mahāpurusha (Viṣṇu). The charter was issued from the capital Pravarapura and is dated on the seventh tithi of the dark fortnight of Kārttika in the twenty-seventh year of Pravarasena II's reign. The scribe was Kālidāsa who was serving under the Senāpati Kātyāyana. He is different from the great Sanskrit poet Kālidāsa.

The inscription is in Sanskrit written in the box-headed characters.

(Edited by Prof. V. V. Mirashi in the Epigraphia Indica, Vol. XXIII, p. 81 ff.).

AN INCOMPLETE VĀKĀṬAKA PLATE

[Of about the end of the 5th Century A. D.]

[Presented by Nagashāh of Sāroli, Pānābāras Zamindāri,
Drug district ]

This plate was found at Mohallā, the headquarters of the Pānābāras Zamindāri in the Drug district. It was intended to be issued by a Vākāṭaka king from Padmapura but was left incomplete for some unknown reason. It contains only a portion of the Vākāṭaka genealogy. It mentions by name only one prince of the dynasty, viz., Pravarasena I and contains a description of his grandson (Rudrasena I) who succeeded him.

Padmapura mentioned in this plate is probably identical with the Padmapura which was the birth-place of the great Sanskrit dramatist Bhavabhūti. It is now called Padampur and is situated about 2 miles from Āmgaon in the Bhandārā district, a station on the main line of the Bengal-Nagpur Railway.

The record is written in Sanskrit and in the box-headed characters.

No. 12

BETUL PLATES OF THE PARIVRĀJAKA MAHĀRĀJA SAṄKṢOBHA

[The Gupta, year 199 = A. D. 518-19.]

The inscription belongs to the Parivrājaka Mahārāja SaṄkṣobha and records the grant, by him, of parts of villages Prastaravāṭaka and Dvāravāṭikā in the Province of Tripuri, to a Brāhmaṇa Bhānusvāmin of the Bhāradvāja gotra.

The inscription is dated in the (Gupta) year 199, on the 10th day of Kārttika, the Jupiter's year being Mahā-Mārgaśīṣa. This date corresponds to Monday, the 15th October A. D. 518.

The characters of the inscription belong to the northern class of alphabets, and the language is Sanskrit.

These two plates were originally in the possession of Sāheb Lāl, Mālguzar, of Betul; who presented them to the Museum.

(Edited by R. B. Hiralal in the Epigraphia Indica, Vol. VIII, p. 284 ff.; noticed by him in his Inscriptions, etc., p. 87.)

ANJANAVATI PLATES OF GOVINDA III

[Saka 722 = A. D. 800.]

These three copper-plates were discovered, in May 1935, at Anjanavati in the Chāndur taluka of the Amrāoti district. They were issued by the Rāshtrakūṭa king Govinda III from his capital Mayūrakhaṇḍī on the occasion of a tulā-puruṣa gift at the time of a solar eclipse in Saka 722. The corresponding Christian date is Thursday, the 25th June A. D. 800.

The plates register the grant by Govinda III, of the village Anjanavati to thirteen Brāhmaṇas.

The inscription is in Sanskrit written in the proto-Nāgarī alphabet. .

LOHĀRA PLATES OF THE RĀSHTRAKŪṬA KING GOVINDA III.

[Saka 734 = A. D. 812.]

These plates were found at Sirso near Murtizāpur in the Akolā district. They record the grant of the village Lohārā by the Rāshtrakūṭa king Govinda III on the occasion of the solar eclipse which occurred on the new-moon day of Mārgaśirsha in Saka 734 (the 8th November A. D. 812). The donee was the Brāhmaṇa Risiyappa of Dhārāśiva, who, reserving 400 nivartanas of land in the aforementioned village, divided the remaining land among certain Brāhmaṇas. The grant was made at the capital Mayūrakhandī.

The village Lohārā granted by the plates is probably identical with Lohārā, about 8 miles to the west of Kāranjā in the Murtizāpur taluka in Berār.

The inscription is in Sanskrit written in the proto-Nāgarī alphabet.

(Edited by Prof. V. V. Mirashi in the Epigraphia Indica, Vol. XXIII, p. 212 ff.)

THE SIŚAVAI COPPER-PLATES OF THE
RĀSHTRKŪṭA KING GOVINDA III[Saka 729 = A. D. 807.]

These copper-plates were found at Sirso near Murtizāpur in the Akolā district. They record the grant of the two villages named Sisavai and Moragāṇa, made by the Rāshtrakūṭa king Govinda III to the Brāhmaṇa Risiyappa of Dhārāśiva on the occasion of the lunar eclipse which took place on Saturday, the full moon day of Bhādrapada in Saka 729, corresponding the 21st August A. D. 807. The grant was made at the capital Mayūrakhandī.

Sisavai is modern Sirso near Murtizāpur. Moragāṇa cannot be traced. Dhārāśiva is now called Osmānābād, the headquarters of a district of the same name in the Nizām's Dominions.

The inscription is in Sanskrit written in the proto-Nāgarī alphabet.

KĀRITALĀI STONE INSCRIPTION OF THE REIGN OF THE CHEDI KING LAKSHMANARĀJA II

[10th Century A. D.]

This inscription found at Kāritalāi in the Murwārā tahsil mentions the names of Yuvarājadeva and Lakshmanarāja, who can be, without any doubt, identified with Keyūravarṣa-Yuvarājadeva I and his son Lakshmanarāja II. It is undated, but its date may be fixed between the middle and end of the 10th Century A. D. The proper object of the inscription is to record the construction of a temple dedicated to the boar incarnation of Viṣṇu by a minister of the Chedis named Someśvara, son of Bhākamīśra, the Chief Minister of Yuvarājadeva I. A number of donations by the king Lakṣmaṇarāja and his queen are recorded, including the following villages :—

Dīrghaśākhika, probably Dighi, 6 miles south-east of Kāritalāi and Chakrabhradi, Chākadahi, 7 miles south of Kāritalāi, Challipāṭaka in the district of Dhavalaharā, Antārapāṭa and Vatāgārtikā which still remain unidentified.

BILHĀRI STONE INSCRIPTION OF THE RULERS OF CHEDI

[About the end of 10th Century A. D.]

The stone is said to have been found at Bilhāri in Jubbulpore district. The inscription has two parts. The first records that Nohalā, the queen of the Kalachuri king Yuvarājadeva I, alias Keyūravarsha, erected a Śiva temple endowing it with the revenues of the villages Dhangaṭapāṭaka, Vīdā, Sajjhālī and Gosṭhapāṭaka and that she granted the villages Nāpanīya and Ambipāṭaka to a sage Iśvaraśiva. The second part states that the sacred buildings of that queen were made over to sages by her son Lakshmaṇarāja, who defeated the king of Kosala (Chhattisgarh) and led an expedition as far as Somarāṭha in Kāthiawād. The inscription carries the genealogy of the Kalachuris down to Yuvarājadeva II (who flourished towards the end of the 10th Century A. D.)

The inscription is in Sanskrit written in the Nāgarī characters.

(Edited by Prof. Kielhorn in the Epigraphia Indica, Vol. II, p. 251 ff.; noticed in R. B. Hiralal's Inscriptions, etc., p. 23.)

SIHORA PLATE OF YASAHKARNADEVA

This record was found at Sihorā in Jubbulpore district. Originally it was engraved on two plates. The second plate of the set is lost. The inscription, as we learn from the transcript, preserved in the Museum, of the lost portion, records a grant of a village Karanjā in the Pattalā (sub-division) of Jāuli made by Yaśahkaiṇadeva, a Kalachuri king of the 12th Century A. D. It mentions the foundation of a town Karnāvati (Karnabel near Tripuri or Tewar) by Karnadeva and the defeat of the Andhras near the Godāvari by Yaśhkarṇadeva. Jāuli was the old name of Jubbulpore.

The inscription is in Sanskrit written in Devanāgarī. Its date which was written on the second plate cannot be definitely determined from the transcript.

TEWAR STONE INSCRIPTION OF THE REIGN OF GAYAKARNADEVA

[Kalachuri year 902 = A. D. 1151.]

This inscription, found at Tewar (old Tripuri), 6 miles from Jubbulpore, refers itself to the reign of the Kalachuri king Gayākarṇadeva and records the construction of a Śiva temple by an ascetic named Bhāvabrahman.

The genealogy of the Kalachuri kings begins with Karṇadeva whose son was Yaśhkarṇa. From him sprang Gayākarṇa, whose son Narsimha is mentioned in it as heir-apparent.

The inscription is dated on Sunday, the first tithi of the bright fortnight of Āshādha in the Chedi year 902, corresponding to Sunday, the 17th June A. D. 1151. It is written in Sanskrit and in Devanāgarī characters.

(Edited by Prof. Kielhorn in the Indian Antiquary, Vol. XVIII, p. 209 ff.; noticed in R. B. Hiralal's Inscriptions, etc., p. 28.)

JUBBULPORE KOTWALI PLATES OF
JAYASIMHADEVA[Kalachuri year 918 = A. D. 1167.]

This copper charter records the grant of a village named Agarā near Akharud to a Brāhmaṇa on the occasion of a lunar eclipse by Jayasimhadeva of Tripurī after bathing in the river (Narmadā) at Tripurī (Tewar). It gives the genealogy of the king commencing from Vishṇu, Brahmā, Atri, the Moon, Purūravas, Bharata and Kārtavīrya, the best of the Haihayas, of whom the Kalachuris formed a branch. In the latter line was born Yuvarājadeva II whose son was Kokalla II, whose son was Gāṅgeyadeva, whose son was Gayakarnadeva, who begot Narasimhadeva on his consort Alhaṇadevi. His younger brother Jayasimhadeva was the donor.

The lunar eclipse occurred on Saturday, the full-moon day of Āśvina in the (Kalachuri) year 918, corresponding to the 30th September A. D. 1167.

The inscription is written in the Sanskrit language and in the Devanāgarī characters.

JUBBULPORE STONE INSCRIPTION OF THE
TIME OF JAYASIMHADEVA[Kalachuri year 926 = A. D. 1174-75.]

The stone is reported to have been brought from Jubbulpore. The inscription is in Sanskrit and Devanāgarī characters. It is much worn out. It belongs to the time of the Kalachuri ruler Jayasimhadeva and is dated in the Kalachuri year 926 (= A. D. 1174-75).

The object of the inscription is to record the construction of a temple of Śiva by Vimalaśiva, the spiritual preceptor of Jayasimhadeva.

(Edited by Prof. V. V. Mirashi in the Epigraphia Indica, Vol. XXV; noticed in R.B. Hiralal's Inscriptions, etc., p. 42.)

AMODĀ PLATES OF PRITHIVIDEVA I

[Kalachuri year 831 = A. D. 1079.]

This charter on two copper-plates was discovered at Amodā in the Janjgir tahsil of the Bilāspur district. It records the grant of a village named Vasahā in the Yayapara-maṇḍala to a Brāhmaṇa named Keśava on the occasion of the dedication of a chatushkikā or hall resting on 4 pillars at Tummāna on Sunday, the 7th of the dark fortnight of Phālguna in the Chedi (or Kalachuri) year 831, corresponding to Sunday, the 27th January A. D. 1079. This is the oldest inscription of the Kalachuris found in Chhattīsgarh.

Vasahā is the present Basahā, 33 miles from Bilāspur. The charter is written in the Sanskrit language and in the Devanāgarī characters.

RATANPUR STONE INSCRIPTION OF JĀJALLADEVA I

[Kalachuri year 866 = A. D. 1114.]

This stone comes from Ratanpur in the Bilāspur district. The inscription on it records that Jājalladeva I, the Kalachuri Prince of Ratanpur which was founded by his grandfather Ratnarāja I, established a monastery, made a garden and a lake, and erected a temple at Jājallapura. It alludes to the honour paid to him by the rulers of Kānyakubja (Kanauj), Jejābhukti (Jajhauti), and the tribute or presents given by the chiefs of Vairāgara (Wairagarh), Lanjikā (Lānji), Bhāṇāra (Bhandāīā), etc. It is in Sanskrit written in Devanāgarī and is dated in the (Kalachuri) year 866 (= A. D. 1114).

AMODĀ PLATES (FIRST SET) OF PRITHVIDEVA II[Kalachuri year 900 = A. D. 1149.]

This set of two plates was found at Amodā in the Jānjgir tahsil of the Bilāspur district. It records the grant of the village Avalā to a Brāhmaṇa by Prithvideva II of the Kalachuri dynasty of Ratanpur, on the occasion of a lunar eclipse in the month of Chaitra in the (Kalachuri) year 900. The date corresponds to Friday, the 25th March A. D. 1149.

The inscription is written in Sanskrit and Devanāgarī characters.

SPURIOUS (?) COPPER-PLATE INSCRIPTION OF PRITHVIDEVA II FROM GHOTIĀ IN THE
RAIPUR DISTRICT[Kalachuri year 1000 (?).]

These copper-plates were found in his field by a cultivator of Ghotiā, in the Raipur district. They were brought to light by Mr. Ishwar Segrām, Tahsildār of Balodā Bazār.

The inscription purports to record the grant of a village Goṭhadā (clearly the present Ghotiā where the plates were found) apparently situated in Sāgatta-māṇḍala, to the Brāhmaṇa Gopāla Sarman of the Āśvalāyana gotra. He was born of Rihila, son of Hari, and was a learned man, as he had studied the Śrutiś, Smṛitiś and Purāṇas. According to R. B. Hiralal who has edited this record, it was he who made use of his great learning in committing this forgery, the composition whereof has been attributed to a Vāstavya (Kāyastha) Vatsarāja, son of Kirtidhara. The Haihaya king Prithvideva II has been made the donor, and his genealogy is given, commencing from Kekkala (Kokkala), the name of Kārtavīrya being mentioned as the originator of the family. The descendants of Kokkala who find mention are his son Kalingarāja, grandson Kamalarāja and great-grandson Ratnarāja (I). The latter's wife was Nonallā from whom was born Prithvideva (I), whose son was Jājalladeva (I), whose son was Ratnadeva II, the father of the donor, Prithvideva II.

The charter is dated Samvat 1000 on a Thursday of the bright fortnight of Bhādrapada, the most important item, the tithi being omitted. The record does not state what Samvat it refers to. It does not fit in with any era prevalent in Mahā-Kosala or Chhattisgarh.

It is, however, not unlikely that it is an incorrect copy of a genuine charter of Prithvideva II, made by an ignorant scribe. The intended date was probably 900 of the Kalachuri era (= A. D. 1148-49). It falls in the reign of Prithvideva II.

AMODĀ PLATES (SECOND SET) OF PRITHVIDEVA II

[Kalachuri year 905 = A. D. 1154.]

This set of two plates was discovered at Amodā in the Jānjgir tahsil of the Bilaspur district. It records the grant by Prithvideva II, Kalachuri king of Ratanpur of the village Budubudu in the Madhya-maṇḍala to three Brāhmaṇas. The inscription is dated on Tuesday, the 6th tithi of the bright fortnight of Āśvina in the (Kalachuri) year 905. The date corresponds to Tuesday, the 14th September A. D. 1154.

The inscription is written in Sanskrit and in the Devanāgarī characters.

RATANPUR STONE INSCRIPTION OF THE
REIGN OF PRITHVIDEVA II[ Kalachuri year 910 = A. D. 1148-49. ]

(Unpublished.)

This slab was brought from Ratanpur in the Bilaspur district. The inscription on it, which is almost entirely effaced, refers itself to the reign of Prithvīdeva II and is dated in the Kalachuri year 910.

The object of the inscription is to record the benefactions of Vallabharāja of the Vaiśya lineage who was a feudatory of Prithvīdeva II.

The inscription is written in Sanskrit and in the Devanāgarī characters.

(Noticed in R. B. Hiralal's Inscriptions, etc., p. 117.)

No. 28

RATANPUR INSCRIPTION OF THE TIME OF
PRITHVIDEVA II[ Vikrama year 1207 = A. D. 1149-50. ]

This stone was brought from the Fort of Ratanpur. The inscription refers itself to the reign of Prithvīdeva II, a Kalachuri prince of Ratanpur, and records the erection of a Śiva temple at the village Sāmbā, by a person called Devagaṇa. Its language is Sanskrit and characters Devanāgarī. It is dated in the Vikrama year 1207 (= A. D. 1149-50).

RATANPUR INSCRIPTION OF BRAHMADEVA,
A FEUDATORY OF PRITHVIDEVA II

[Kalachuri year 915 = A. D. 1163-64.]

This inscription was found fixed to a wall of the Bādal Mahāl in the Ratanpur fort. It is much defaced. It eulogises Brahmadeva, who was a feudatory of the Kalachuri king Prithvīdeva II of Ratanpur. The object of the inscription is to record the religious and charitable works such as temples, tanks, gardens, etc., which were constructed by Brahmadeva at Mallār, Barelāpura, Nāīāyanapura, Bahmanīgrāma, Tējallapura and Kumārākotapāṭṭaṇa. These places can still be identified in the Bilāspur and Raipur districts.

The inscription is in Sanskrit written in Devanāgarī characters and is dated in the Kalachuri year 915 = A. D. 1163-64.

AMODĀ PLATES OF JĀJALLADEVA II

[Kalachuri year 919 = A. D. 1167-68.]

This set of two plates was discovered at Amodā in the Janjgir tahsil of the Bilāspur district. The inscription on it records the grant by Jājalladeva II of the village Bunderā to two Brāhmaṇas by way of thanksgiving on his escape from a great calamity. Its date was recorded in three figures of which the last is damaged. The date was probably the (Kalachuri) year 919, corresponding to A. D. 1167-68. Bunderā, the donated village, is probably Bundelā, 11 miles south-west of Amodā.

The inscription is written in the Sanskrit language and in the Devanāgarī characters.

INSCRIPTIONS OF VĀHARENDRA AND GHĀΤAMA

[Vikrama year 1570 = A. D. 1513.]

(Unpublished.)

This stone, which is broken into two parts, was found in the fort of Kosgain, 4 miles to the north-east of Chhuri in the Bilsāpur district. It has two different records, one on each side, but both are much worn. One inscription praises some chiefs of Haihaya family. The line of kings given seems to be Haihaya, Kārtavīrya, Singhana, Damghira(?), Madanabrahman, Rāmchandra, Ratnasena and finally Vāharendra. It records Vāharendra's victory over Pāṭhāns. The language is Sanskrit written in Devanāgarī. Vāharendra flourished about 1500 A. D.

The inscription on the other side praises a Chauhan Rājā called Ghāṭama, the son-in-law of Yaśa of the Lunḍela family. After consigning his son Sauridāsa to the care of Ghāṭama, Yaśa attacked his enemies who were probably the Pāṭhāns mentioned in Vāharendra's inscription. His minister called Goraksha is praised in line 10. This inscription also is written in the Sanskrit language and Nāgarī characters. It is dated on Monday, the thirteenth tithi of the dark fortnight of the Vikramā year 1570, the cyclic year being Vikrama. The date corresponds to Monday, the 26th September A. D. 1513.

(Noticed in R. B. Hiralal's Inscriptions, etc., p. 126.)

MEMORIAL PILLAR INSCRIPTION OF THE TIME OF VIKRAMĀDITYA (VI)

[Saka year 1008 (1009?) = A. D. 1087.]

This inscription is on an elaborately sculptured pillar which was found at Sitābuldi, a suburb of Nāgpur. It is dated in Saka Saṁvat 1008, on Friday, the third lunar day of the bright half of Vaiśākha of the cyclic year Prabhava. It refers itself to the reign of the glorious Tribhuvanamalladeva, the frontal ornament of the family of Satyāśraya and ornament of the Chālukyas, i.e., the King Vikramāditya VI of the Western Chālukya dynasty. It records that the Dandanāyaka Vāsudeva, the dependant of Dhādibhandaka, who was the great feudatory of the King, and who had emigrated from Lātalaura (Lātur in the Osmānābād district) gave (certain) nivartanas of land for the grazing of cattle, etc., apparently to a temple at which the inscription was put up. The date is irregular. The day intended by the date is probably Thursday, 8th April A. D. 1087.

THE RATANPUR STONE INSCRIPTION OF BHAVADEVA

[Of about the 6th Century A. D.]

This inscription is said to have come from Ratanpur. It is fragmentary. It opens with four verses invoking the protection of Buddha. It next mentions that a king named Sūryaghoṣa who was deeply grieved at the loss of a dear son who had died by a fall from the top of the palace, built a splendid temple of the Muni (i.e., Sage Buddha). Some time after him there came Udayana born from the Pāñduvamśa. His grandson Bhavadeva-Raṇakesarīn took care of the abode of Sugata (Buddha) and under him two men restored the building which had fallen into decay. Further on, the inscription mentions Nannarāja.

Some inscriptions of this Pāñduvamśi or Somavamśi dynasty have been found in the Raipur district in Chhattisgarh.

MALLĀR PLATES OF MAHĀSIVAGUPTA

[Of the First Half of the 7th Century A. D.]

These plates were found underground near a temple at Mallār in 1936. They are strung on a ring which has a round seal with the figure of a bull and a Sanskrit verse containing the name of the King Mahāśivagupta.

The plates were granted by Mahāśivagupta, the son of Harshagupta. They record that king's grant of the village Kailāsapura in the bhoga or sub-division of Taradāmśaka to the Buddhist monks residing in a small monastery at Taradāmśaka. The gift was made on the occasion of a solar eclipse on the new-moon day of Āshādha at the request of the king's maternal uncle Bhāskaravarman.

The inscription is written in the box-headed characters and in the Sanskrit language. It is not dated, but can be referred to the beginning of the 7th Century A. D.

COPPER-PLATE INSCRIPTION OF MAHĀBHAVAGUPTA

[About 12th Century A. D.]

These are three plates held together by a ring with a seal. The inscription is in Sanskrit, written in Devanāgarī and records that Mahābhavagupta, the king of Trikaliṅga, granted Satallamā, a village in Kaśalodā district (Viṣaya) to a Brāhmaṇa who emigrated from Purushamandapa in Orissa (Ödra) and resided in Murujunga village. Satallamā is Satlamā in the Bargarh tahsil of the Sambalpur district in Orissa. The record is dated in the 8th year of the victorious reign of Janamejaya. Janamejaya was perhaps another name of Mahābhavagupta II.

(Edited by Dr. Hultzsch in the Epigraphy Indica, Vol. VIII, p. 138 ff.)

NAGPUR STONE INSCRIPTION OF THE RULERS OF MĀLWĀ

[Vikrama year 1161 = A. D. 1104-05.]

The findspot of this inscription is not definitely known. The inscription gives a laudatory account of the Paramāra rulers of Mālwā, alludes to an expedition of the King Lakshmadeva against Tripurī (Tewar near Jubbulpore) and fights with the Turushkas or Muhammadan invaders. It records that the King Naravarmadeva assigned the village Mokhalapāṭaka in place of two villages in Vyāpura Maṇḍala given in grant by his brother Lakṣmadeva and erected a temple where the stone was put up. Its language is Sanskrit and characters Nāgarī. The date given is (Vikrama) year 1161 (= A. D. 1104-05).

Mokhalapāṭaka may be the village Mokhara, 50 miles east of Bhāndak in the Chāndā district.

(Edited by Prof. Kielhorn in the Epigraphia Indica, Vol. II, p. 180 ff.; noticed in R. B. Hiralal's Inscriptions, etc., p. 1.)

MĀNDHĀTĀ PLATES OF DEVAPĀLADEVA
OF DHĀRĀ

[Vikrama Samvat 1282 = A. D. 1225.]

These three copper-plates were found encased in a stone chest, near the temple of Siddheśvara at Māndhātā, district Nimār, and were presented to the Museum by Rāo Jaswant Singh of Māndhātā in 1905. The inscription which they bear is written in Sanskrit and in the Devanāgarī characters. The charter was issued by Devapāla a Paramāra king of Dhārā from Māhishmatī (Māndhātā) and records his grant of the village of Satājunā (about 13 miles south-west of Māndhātā) to 32 different Brāhmaṇas at the time of the lunar eclipse on the full-moon tithi in the month of Bhādrapada in the (Vikrama) year 1282, corresponding to Tuesday, the 19th August A. D. 1225.

MĀNDHĀTĀ PLATES OF THE REIGN OF JAYAVARMAN II OF DHĀRĀ

[Vikrama year 1317 = A. D. 1260-61.]

These two plates were found buried in the village of Godarpurā near Māndhātā and forwarded by the Deputy Commissioner, Nimar, to be deposited in this Museum in the year 1905. The inscription on them is in Sanskrit written in Devanāgarī and records that Gangādeva, the door-keeper of Rājā Jayavarmanadeva at the instance of his Royal Master granted the village of Vaḍauda (modern Barud) to three different Brāhmaṇas at Amareśvara Kshetra on the third day of the bright half of Āgrahāyana (Mārgaśīrṣa) of the Vikaram year 1317. The grant was confirmed by the Rājā on Thursday, the 11th day of the bright half of Jyeshtha of the same year. The former date corresponds to Sunday, the 7th November A. D. 1260, and the latter to Thursday, the 12th May A. D. 1261.

BARSUR STONE INSCRIPTION OF GAÑGA MAHĀDEVI

[Saka year 1130 (for 1030) = A. D. 1109.]

This slab, broken into two parts, was brought from the village Kowtāh in Sironchā tahsil of Chāndā district (Central Provinces), where it was used as a tomb-stone.

The inscription is on three sides of the slab and registers an endowment of the village Keramāruka by Gaṅga Mahā-devī, the queen of Someśvara-deva of the Nāga race, to two Siva temples she had built in honour of her husband and herself.

The language is Telugu prose written in Telugu alphabet. It is dated in the Saka year 1130 (for 1030) Phālguna sudi 12, Sunday corresponding to Sunday, the 14th February A. D. 1109. Keramāruka may be Kodmalnār close to Barsur.

KIRĀRI WOODEN PILLAR INSCRIPTION

[Of the 2nd Century A. D.]

This inscription is on a wooden pillar discovered in 1921 in the bed of an old tank called Hirābandh at Kirāri, about 10 miles to the west of Chandrapur in Chhattisgarh. The pillar bore a long inscription, a major portion of which was lost when the surface of the pillar peeled off by exposure to the sun.

The inscription is written in old Brāhmī characters of the 2nd Century A. D. It is in the Prakrit language. It names several dignitaries such as Nagarakhin (city-guard), Senāpati (commander of army), Pratihāra (door-keeper), Gaṇaka (accountant), Bhāṇḍāgārīka (treasurer), Mahā-senānī (commander-in-chief), etc. The pillar was probably set up in connection with some ceremony performed by a great king whose name is now lost.

JĀTĀSANKARA STONE INSCRIPTION OF VIJAYAPĀLA

This slab was found at Jātāśankara, a fort 8 miles from Hatṭā, in the Damoh (now Saugor) district. It records the exploits of one Vijayapāla who is said to have fought at Chitor, conquered the Delhi armies, scattered the Deccan forces close to Mahāgarh and driven out the Gurjaras. His father was Harsharāja, the son of Bhuvanapāla, who was the son of Vijayapāla. These chiefs were apparently related to the Guhila princes of Mevād. The inscription is written in Rājasthāni and has been freely translated in Sanskrit verse. The characters are Devanāgarī.

BATIHAGARH STONE INSCRIPTION

[Vikrama Samvat 1385 = A. D. 1328.]

This inscription was originally brought from Baṭihagarh in the Damoh district and lay for a considerable time in the Deputy Commissioner's bungalow at Damoh. It refers to Jalāl Khojā, a local Governor at Baṭihādīm (present Baṭihagadh), and states that he was the representative of Hisāmuddin, son of Julāchi, who was appointed commander of the Kharapara armies and Governor of the Chedi country by Sultan Muhammad of Yoginīpura or Delhi. This Mahamud would appear to be Nāsiruddin Mahamud of the Slave dynasty who reigned between A. D. 1246 and 1261. The record is dated in the Vikrama year 1385 or A. D. 1328.

The mention of Kharapara armies invests the record with some importance. These were apparently identical with the Kharaparikas of Samudra Gupta's inscription on the Allāhabād pillar.

The language is Sanskrit written in Devanāgarī characters.

(Edited by R. B. Hiralal in the Epigraphia Indica, Vol. XII, p. 44 ff.; noticed by him in his Inscriptions, etc., p. 58.)

BATIHĀGARH STONE INSCRIPTION OF SULTAN MAHMUD

[14th Century A. D.]

This inscription is broken on all sides. It was found at Baṭihāgarh, 21 miles north-east of Damoh. It mentions Sultan Mahmud of Delhi and his Commander Julachi. It is dated in Saṁvat thirteen hundred and odd. Another stone inscription of the reign of Sultan Mahmud, found at Baṭihāgarh, is dated in the Vikrama Saṁvat 1385 (A. D. 1328). So this inscription belongs to the 14th Century A. D. The Sultan Mahmud mentioned in it appears to be Nasiruddin Mahmud of the Slave dynasty.

The inscription is in Sanskrit, written in the Nāgari characters.

As the inscription is very much worn out its object is not clear. It is dated on Tuesday, the 3rd tithi of the bright half of Chaitra in Vikrama Saṁvat 1520, which corresponds to the 22nd March A. D. 1463.

DAMOH PERSIAN INSCRIPTION

This inscription records the construction of the Western Gateway and the wall of the Damoh fort by the special favourite of Ghiyāsuddin in the year 885 A. H. on the 24th of Shawwal, corresponding with A. D. 1480.

The record refers to Ghiyāsuddin Khilji of Mālwā who is known on the coins as Ghiyās Shāh.

(Noticed in R. B. Hiralal's Inscriptions, etc., p. 59.)

No. 56

DIRECTION STONE OF THE REIGN OF SULTĀN
 BURHĀN NIZĀM SHĀH OF THE NIZĀM
 SHĀHI DYNASTY OF AHMEDNAGAR

The inscription reads: "To the right (?) is Sālod and to the left is Nāchangaon." Both these places are in the Wardhā district. The stone was found at Kalamb in the Yeotmāl district. The inscription is in Persian or Arabic as well as in Hindi, but the former letters have been chiselled off. It was put up in the reign of Sultān Burhān Nizām Shāh of Ahmednagar. There were two Burhāns in the Nizām Shāhi dynasty of Ahmednagar. The first one flourished about A. D. 1508 and the second about A. D. 1590.

(Noticed in R. B. Hiralal's Inscriptions, etc., p. 157.)
